

Richard W. Jenkins

Field Representative

Rural Utilities Service/Telecommunications Program;
U.S. Department of Agriculture

Richard E. Jenkins is the USDA/RUS General Field Representative (GFR) for VA, WV, MD and DE. He has degrees from Marshall University and the West Virginia Institute of Technology, and is a part time student studying Engineering Management at Marshall University Graduate School. Richard began his career with RUS in January 2008. Prior to that, he was a Program Manager at General Dynamics for 12 years, managing buildouts of major wireless networks for several national carriers in the United States. He also worked as an engineering associate for several consultants in WV, VA and NC, and as a firefighter/ EMT for the city of Montgomery, WV. He has three children, and lives in Lexington, VA with his wife Robbie.