Vince Maiden is the Managing Director of the State Energy Office at the Virginia Department of Energy (Virginia Energy), where he leads efforts to advance the Commonwealth’s energy strategy. Before joining Virginia Energy, he spent decades at the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ), most recently as the Brownfields Program Leader, driving initiatives in environmental cleanup, restoration, and site revitalization. A graduate fellow of the Virginia Natural Resource Leadership Institute, Vince is committed to tackling Virginia’s most complex energy and natural resource challenges. He holds a degree from Radford University and is a certified Professional Geologist.
